The COLTS embraced the FA RESPECT campaign, which kicked off for the 2015-16 season with a 'Set Your Stall Out' weekend on October 10&11.

U13 skipper Alex Perry - resplendent in RESPECT cap - presented the Lidiard Millicent skipper with a captain's RESPECT armband, while the teams carried out a well-rehearsed handshake before their North Wilts League match.

FA Respect Campaign - Set Your Stall Out. The FA Respect Campaign is a national initiative to promote respect in football. It aims to ensure that football is a safe and enjoyable experience for everyone involved. The campaign includes a range of resources for clubs, coaches, and players, including the 'Set Your Stall Out' initiative. This initiative encourages clubs to display their club crest and name on their kit, as well as to display the FA Respect logo. This helps to promote the club's identity and the values of the FA Respect Campaign. The 'Set Your Stall Out' initiative is a key part of the FA Respect Campaign and is a great way for clubs to show their commitment to the values of the campaign.
